After Hours

HEADER

It's lame we know, but we couldn't come up with a better title, one, because the copy slave typing this happens to be a soccer fan and lost most of his brain cells head butting the ball on penalties and to be honest, we were um distracted, by those shorty exhaust headers. So header it is. Modern Speed Machines sell a bunch of neat stuff for your 2005 and up Mustang, including of course, exhaust headers. With oversized, D-shaped ports to maximize flow from the 3-valve heads, these stainless steel shorties from JBA, designed as a direct bolt on replacement for S197 GT Mustangs really are something aren't they? Don't know about you, but those curves are a work of art, such beautiful pieces.

MODEL LISA ANGELENE

She told us that she liked fast cars, so when the offer came up to hang out at Modern Speed Machines for the day, Lisa Angeline said 'tell me when and I'll be there.' Make no mistake lads, this girl likes going fast – in cars of course, so if a bunch of high performance automobiles turn her crank – then we can think of no better place that she (and we) could set up shop for the day. You probably think that we have all the luck, jetting to the West Coast all the time for photoshoots with pretty girls, fast cars and the California sun. Well yes I guess we do (actually I'm typing this from my desk in the heart of the rust belt, but rest assured I'll be gettin' some southwest sunshine as soon as I can and if it comes in the form of Lisa Angeline I sure won't be complaining, she's already brightened up our day - how about yours?). Lisa describes her background as being Mexican with some Irish – yes I know what you're thinking – she can probably be quite feisty if riled, but keep on her good side and I'm sure you'll have a heckuva time with this one. The things she likes in life, well, at least relating to guys are (c' mon where's that drum roll)... confidence, ambition, drive, intelligence, success, plus if you have all the above and a car that's slightly on the rapid side, then my friend, you appear to be most definitely in with our Lisa. As for things she doesn't like – arrogance, (well there's that fine line between real confidence and arrogance you know), liars, know-it-alls, guys who sit around on their butts all day and also if you're not exactly into personal hygiene. Well lads, I've taken a look at the list and it seems that I'm just one item short of making it onto Lisa's best wish list – but if you want a chance to get to know this lass a little better, you'd better get on it, because I'm about to trade in my four-cylinder Mustang for something a little bit faster and I'll sure be in then...

OLD SCHOOL COOL

Yes, their slogan is new school hotrods, but that car behind Lisa is still one of the greatest of all time – the 1967 Shelby Mustang GT 500. It's old school – loud, proud and fast as all hell, which probably explains why Lisa's smiling so much – we would be too, given any amount of seat time in this beauty. Plus when you've got a gorgeous gal to ride along with you in such a classic machine, does life get any better? Imagine rolling up to your favorite hotspot in one of these – talk about being the center of attention. As somebody probably said at sometime or another – cool cars and hot ladies just never go out of style.

ONE-STOP-SHOPPING AND IT'S NOT FOR SHOES

When you're looking at parts for your Mustang, it can sometimes be a bit of chore, having to go from one place to the next, even online in order to get the right bits to make your dream ride and as many of us know, there are times when a search or two can often leave us empty handed – frustrated because all we need is that pesky last couple of parts to add the cherry on top of our Modified Mustangs cake. Well fellow enthusiast, you need not fret anymore about chasing stuff down, because California-based Modern Speed Machines feels that you shouldn't have to do that. The company was created to serve those who are passionate about the current Mustang but want to get everything they need for their car in one place. So MSM figured, hey, why not create an online one-stop-shop, which houses all the best quality parts you can get your grubby little hands on. Want a set of JBA headers? No problem. How about a full Baer GT Plus brake kit? Same deal, K&N filtercharger kit? Got it covered. And that's just a tiny selection of the products these guys have in stock. If you want you can order a complete supercharger kit, they carry them and if you're really feeling ambitious why not just go the whole hog and have them build a Modern Speed Machine of your very own – they'll do it you know. MSM recently opened a gigantic 15,000 square foot facility in the Los Angeles area that's now housed chock full of parts and open for business, so if you're looking to add a few tweaks to your Stang, or as we've mentioned before, create an entire custom car, maybe you should try giving these folks a holler. It's as easy as logging on to www.modernspeedmachines.com or picking up that thing called the phone and dialing 888-MSM-PERF
